ALCiE Integrated Solutions, Inc. (AIS), a leader in business solutions and enterprise analytics software, today introduced the new interest-free ALCiE Leasing Program branded as ALCiE-Lease-One. Senior management at ALCiE designed the program to assist mid-sized enterprises finance investments in ERP and related IT products and services.

The offer, which is being rolled out across the US and Canada, allows small and medium-sized business customers to lease ALCiE software solutions for three-year, or five-year periods.

"The ALCiE-Lease-One financing program will initially target companies in North America, we aim to extend it to other countries because we see a need to provide financial support," said Anthony Paraskevas, Vice- President of Marketing and Business Development for ALCiE.

ALCiE is currently using its industry contacts to uncover which companies may be interested in its zero-interest leasing program. Many companies, are struggling to retain existing credit lines or tap new ones with their banks amid a sustained economic slow down.

"We have agreed to absorb the costs when our clients secure ALCiE products and services," said Mr. Paraskevas. "We view this as a totally new selling model for ALCiE because it offers attractive conditions that keep interest rates at zero percent. Furthermore, the leasing initiative, which was inspired by several of our clients who asked for better terms spread over the life of an IT project, isn't limited to software products developed by ALCiE. It can also include other qualified IT services."

The ALCiE-Lease-One program, targeting mid-market companies, is based only on the ALCiE Enterprise Solution Suites, the company's flagship line of enterprise software products designed for mid to large corporations. The program, which runs on a variety of operating systems (including Linux, Unix and on Microsoft Corp.'s Windows operating systems), has over 450 customers of whom 90 % are located in the US.
